The Outpatient Oncology Clinic at Copley Hospital offers a team of health care providers who specialize in hematology and oncology. We provide high quality care and support to residents of Lamoille and nearby communities. The outpatient clinic offers private treatment rooms equipped with comfortable recliners, televisions and family and friends may join you.

Emotional support is essential for patients and their families affected by a cancer diagnosis. Copley's team of support includes the oncologist, advanced practice nurse, registered nurses, social worker and chaplain. In addition, we refer as necessary to the Cancer Patient Program at University of Vermont Medical Center for nutritional and psychological support. Our ability to provide high quality cancer care is supported by a multidisciplinary team at Copley Hospital including pharmacy, laboratory, radiology, emergency and inpatient services.

SERVICES

- Chemotherapy and immunotherapy for all cancer diagnoses
- Collaborate/coordinate care with other hospitals, allowing you to receive chemotherapy and supportive care closer to home
- Assess, diagnose, and treat symptoms related to disease and secondary to treatment
- Education regarding disease, treatments and potential side effects
- End of life and palliative care counseling and services in coordination with home health services in the surrounding communities
- Emotional support for patients and their families
